Be Your Own Boss Edgar A. Persons 1982 Suitable for use by teachers as an introductory unit on entrepreneurship, this booklet is organized around 10 basic questions that the aspiring entrepreneur should be able to answer. The following issues are covered in the questions: the suitability of the individual to the entrepreneur role and vice versa, the ability of the individual to make decisions, knowing how to get started, records that the business owner must keep, development and use of profit/loss and balance sheets, regulating cash flow, the necessity of salesmanship, the role of purchasing in a successful business, and the importance of good employer employee relations. Although complete answers are not provided to the questions, enough information is given so a teacher will know the kinds of information students need to consider entrepreneurship as an alternative work role. At the end of each brief section is a one- or two-sentence summary statement. Each is a key statement of knowledge and skills needed by the aspiring entrepreneur. Combined, they can serve as a checklist on what students need to know about establishing a business. (MN)

Financial Accounting for School Administrators Ronald E. Everett 2012-05-18 An update to Financial and Managerial Accounting for School Administrators: Superintendents, School Business Administrators and Principals, this book and CD includes current best practices, GASB pronouncements, and web-based applications. It also provides school administrators with important accounting background, technique, and applications in the school environment and demonstrates the overall binding effect accounting has on all of the tasks and functions performed by school administrators. Knowledge about accounting and accounting skills pervades all aspects of the day-to-day operation of a school and school district. The proper day-to-day operation of the schools and quality planning and decision-making cannot realistically take place unless administrators and board members have an understanding of school fund accounting. The present and the future will see the need for both financial and managerial accounting. One type will not overshadow the other. Both will continue to evolve and develop to satisfy the needs of society and the education community. Financial and managerial accounting together can be thought of as the process that gathers, produces, organizes, and presents information that can be consumed by a wide variety of users for the purpose of keeping an organization operating, growing, improving, and changing. This book and CD will be useful to superintendents, school business managers, and principals.
